

Enno Däneke

Role and Experience

Enno Däneke is a project manager at the FutureManagementGroup AG. He supports companies in the early recognition of future markets and advises on the institutionalization of future management. He is the head of Future-ManagementGroup AG's Future-Radar-Team and the Mobility and Logistics FutureMarkets-Center. He has initiated and led numerous futures studies, amongst others on the future of logistics services, personnel services and management consultancy, the future of work and management and analyses of the significance of future factors for various sectors.

He is active as a guest speaker on future management and future markets at various educational institutions, such as the European Business School Oestrich-Winkel, University College Maastricht, Hochschule Furtwangen and ManagementCircle.

Enno Däneke holds a degree in international business with a focus on East Asia and wrote his final paper on the use of futures research methods in strategic management. During his studies, he spent extended periods in Australia and China.

FutureMarkets-Center

Enno Däneke heads the following FutureMarkets-Center:

Mobility and Logistics >

Contact >

Contact Enno Däneke.